> I doubt that I can make the hearing due to my court schedule. But would someone please point out that two cities, Toronto and Melbourne, which allow wall murals actually have seen areas turn into major tourist stops precisely because of the wall murals. And they use these murals in their international tourism marketing. But who would expect our alderpersons to even imagine Milwaukee as world-class, given how parochial most are? folks complain about tagging or the graffiti style art, and they jump like galvanic frogs. Far be it from them to consider that some of their youth and even adult constituents actually like such a style art. Nor can we expect them to have seen the high-priced legitimate art publications of the last few years which have been published on and have legitimated such art.
