Curt,

Thanks, So it's only $5000 to $15,000 over removing the chimney and extending the roof in that spot to cover the chimney hole.... Good information.

Thanks.

I'm waiting on some other info - then I'll be going to the historic preservation commission.

Dave

Good afternoon David,

Sorry it took so long to get an answer for you on restoring the chimney.

Chimney Restoration with roof slope restoration $50,000-$60,000

- dismantle chimney to metal bar
- rebuild chimney from bar to top
- reinstall bar at a slop away from chimney to divert water away from chimney versus to chimney. (this is part of what has led to the current conditions.)
- support bar will be cleaned, primed and painted to ensure durable finish for future performance.

Let me know what scope(s) you would like to move forward with and I can get a formal proposal put together.

Feel free to contact me with any Q's 630-849-5198.

From earlier email: Chimney teardown with roof slope restoration $40,000-$45,000
