To whom it may concern,

I am writing this letter on behalf of the Central City Cyberschool. I am a parent of a 5th grader at the school. This school has provided my son with the ability to advocate for himself as well as to get in touch with his feelings. This is huge for me because my son was not able to express himself without feeling judged. He is now advocating for himself by telling us if he likes something or not, if he wants something or not or even if he's not up to doing a specific activity. The Cybeschool has a way of giving children a voice. With the curriculum and programs that they use, my child has become a more engaged learner and I love to see that in him! He has also begun counseling, which has helped shaped who has become tremendously. I stand with Central City Cyberschool in all that they promote. I wouldn't think about putting him anywhere else. We love Central City Cyberschool.
