

To whom It may Concern,

On May 14, 2004 around 4:00pm my neighbor came over to ask if my basement was flooded, I went to check and at the time there was about one foot of water steady raising. I called my husband to come home from work because he had his equipment for his cleaning business down there and I couldn't get it fast enough by myself. By the time he got home from work there was about two feet of water in the basement and it had seemed to stop coming up. We had been informed by someone from the Gas Co. not to go in the basement because it was hazardous. We left and went to my mothers house for awhile, and when we returned, ^{home} around ten p.m. all of the water was gone out of the basement like magic.

Some of the things that were damaged in the Flood were:

1. cloths dryer
2. 27" color TV.
3. cloths.
4. shoes
5. toys
6. tools
7. area rug
8. leather recliner
9. dishes
10. pictures
11. computer
12. CD. radio
13. DVD player
14. play station
15. floor scrubber
16. floor buffer.
