To Whom It May Concern:

I'm partnering with On Purpose Journey Inc. as part of their CommUNITY Team focusing on the mission of using THE LITTLE WHITE TRUCK WITH THE BIG MISSION children's book as a tool for spreading awareness, honoring those who serve, and uniting in preserving the message of freedom and sharing the stories of heroes.

As the driver of the "little white truck," a Vietnam Veteran, and the one who first shared with Mollie the story of transporting the 9/11 Steel from New York to Milwaukee with Mark Fox in 2011, I am already involved and plan to stay involved with outreach, fundraising, school screening, and distributing books to schools.

The 9/11 Steel can represent anger and hatred or it can represent hope, and tell people who want to take our freedom . . . 'No!' And we will pass this message on, if we do our best, to our children and grandchildren so they never forget. The 9/11 Steel's story in THE LITTLE WHITE TRUCK WITH THE BIG MISSION is a tool to help us to never forget, to fight for peace at whatever cost, and share the love we have for our freedom. Veterans will NEVER FORGET what the cost of freedom is—I see the reminders every night of what our country gave back in Vietnam, and consistently hear from the veterans and families of those who have lost loved ones in today's wars. Uniting in this effort of getting books into the schools ensures that future generations will ALWAYS REMEMBER.

Please consider joining us in this mission of unity, awareness, hope, and healing for our Veterans by approving this grant request.

Sincerely,

Joseph F. Campbell
