

Patricia (Pat) Nissen is a Growth and Market Development manager for Aurora Health Care, working in administration at Aurora Sinai Medical Center and Aurora St. Luke's South Shore.

Beginning her career with Aurora Health Care 36 years ago as a registered nurse, Pat worked Day Surgery and Pediatrics. In the 15 years that followed she was involved in nursing education, community education and led a Bader Grant sponsored Healthy Community Initiative in the south shore.

Currently, Pat is part of the Aurora system business group that completes growth planning. She is a working member of the administrative teams at Aurora Sinai Medical Center and Aurora St. Luke's South Shore and helps bring about new business and achievement of growth plans working with physicians and community.

Pat and her husband live in Milwaukee County in the city of Franklin.