Investigation found two underage patrons (ages 16 and 18) were inside the bar. Police spoke with the bartender Latara Brown who stated the two entered the bar and asked for a drink but that she refused them and told them to leave. Brown stated the two were inside the bar for 5 to 6 minutes prior to police arrival. Brown stated she didn't call police because she figured they would both leave. Brown was advised by police to call in the future if any problems arise. Attempts to contact the agent, Miley Howard, were unsuccessful. The underage subjects were cited.

Officers found the business was closed and discovered drops of blood on the sidewalk in front of the bar. Another patron of the bar told officers that he observed a male and female arguing outside and the female hit the male in the head with a bottle, the male then took the bottle from the female and struck her in the head. During this encounter, officers asked Manning if he had a bartender's license. Manning told officers he had a bartender's license but did not have it with him. Milwaukee police incident report #163160131 filed.
