He was not aware he couldn't sell food past his license expiration date. He does not have a provisional license.

His patrons roar onto the sidewalk and will hit someone at some point in time. He also allows another business's customers to park on the sidewalk, grass, curb, up to about 20 vehicles. She calculates his lot could hold 5 cars. One time it went a month before the dumpster was emptied. The illegally parked cars will also physically move the dumpster to wherever they wish. He has limited groceries; his biggest sales are in nachos. She has been talking to him for 4-5 years about the trash and parking.

The applicant mailed in his application for renewal on April 10th.

Ms. Burks doesn't want to see another vacant building, but the licensee was also aware she would be here today. Her main concern is the parking on his lot as she gets woke up every Wednesday, Thursday and Friday nights due to the parking noises.
