Im am writing to voice my support for the Hackett avenue project.

Of all the apartment buildings built in and around the area aesthetically I think this one does the best job and blending into the surrounding buildings while also bringing something new to the table. One thing that a lot of the nearby apartment buildings and houses all built in the early 20th century lack accessibility. All areas of the city should be accessible to all persons for work, recreation and housing. I bet the area business would love the extra foot traffic from 55 new apartments, this building has plenty of available parking, (more than i would like but that's a big issue to solve with our public transit system) I hope this project moves forward so we can start creating a neighborhoods for all not just the elite few

Best Regards
