To whom it may concern,

Central City Cyber School is one of Milwaukee's top school in my opinion. It is a great school to send your kids to for academics, it's culture and for success in all around development such as social skills, peer mediation, social emotional development and so much more.

I personally would recommend this school because of its success in academic preparation for each grade. They work hard with their students to ensure mastery level in every content subject including diversifying teaching methods and styles.

C3 is also great at communicating with parents. They offer many opportunities for families to engage and be a part of their community so that both parties are able to support in the success of every student enrolled as partners.

Lastly C3 offers all the opportunity to have a voice and participate in changes and things that will effect the future of the school as well as the student's future.

The staff demonstrates that they believe every child has the ability and capability to learn in their own unique way and supports them in doing so.
