Dear Property Owner:

RE: Substitute resolution designating the Garden Homes development as a City of Milwaukee historic district. (1st Aldermanic District)

On January 15, 2013, the Common Council of the City of Milwaukee passed Resolution No. 101274 granting historic designation of the Garden Homes development, in the 1st Aldermanic District, as a City of Milwaukee Historic District.

As an owner of a property in a Milwaukee Historic District, it will now be necessary for you to obtain a Certificate of Appropriateness (COA) from the Milwaukee Historic Preservation Commission before beginning any work that will affect the exterior of your property. Building permits for work affecting the exterior of your property will not be issued until a COA is issued.

Enclosed is information literature that explains, in detail, the procedure for obtaining a COA and the preservation guidelines the Commission will review. Additional information and publication guides to exterior work can be obtained from the Commission Staff.

If you have any questions on the historic district, please contact Carlen Hatala of the Historic Preservation Staff at (414) 286-5722. If you have any questions on obtaining a Certificate of Appropriateness, please contact Paul Jakobovich of the Historic Preservation Staff at (414) 286-5712. You can also visit the Milwaukee Historic Preservation Commission office website at <http://city.milwaukee.gov/hpc>.

Sincerely,

JAMES R. OWCZARSKI
City Clerk

HOW TO OBTAIN A CERTIFICATE OF APPROPRIATENESS FOR A HISTORIC SITE OR STRUCTURE IN MILWAUKEE

The Milwaukee Historic Preservation Ordinance

The historic preservation ordinance, adopted as Section 308-81 (now 320-21) of the Milwaukee Code in June of 1981, provided certain kinds of legal protection for buildings or sites the Common Council of the City of Milwaukee has declared "Historic Structures" or "Historic Sites." The purpose of this ordinance is to preserve Milwaukee's heritage, history, and its superb collection of period architecture. A seven-member Historic Preservation Commission appointed by the Mayor administers the ordinance. The commissioners are dedicated citizens, architects, historians, and other experts selected for their interest and skills in historic preservation. The Commission and its staff are ready to assist the public in any appropriate way to meet these goals.

A complete explanation of the provisions of the ordinance can be obtained by contacting the Historic Preservation Commission staff. In brief, the ordinance provides that any individual or group may nominate a building or place for designation as a Historic Structure, Historic Site, or Historic District. The Historic Preservation Commission reviews the applications and makes a recommendation to the Common Council that a structure or site should be declared "Historic." The Council then acts upon the Commission's recommendation.

Once the structure, site, or district has been designated as locally historic by the Common Council, the structure, site or district is under the protection of the ordinance, and no changes may be made to the exterior unless the owner first obtains a "Certificate of Appropriateness" from the Historic Preservation Commission. This certificate is the Commission's written affirmation that a proposed change is sympathetic to the historic character of the property and is consistent with the intent of the ordinance. When a permit is applied for, the Development Center plan examiner will check to see if the property in question is a designated historic structure, historic site or within a historic district. If it is, the applicant is required to obtain a Certificate of Appropriateness.

Obtaining Certificates of Appropriateness

To obtain a Certificate of Appropriateness, the owner of the building files an application with the Historic Preservation Commission as outlined below.

Some certificates for simple projects are issued by staff within a few days of application. Certificate requests for larger or higher impact projects are reviewed by the Commission at a public meeting. The Commission hears opinions and evidence on the proposed changes, and then exercises its best collective judgment as to whether or not the proposed alteration or demolition is compatible with the intent of the ordinance and public interest. If the judgment is favorable, the Commission will direct staff to issue a Certificate of Appropriateness directly to the owner and submit a copy to the Development Center. The owner may then obtain the necessary building permit in the normal way. The Commission may also issue a Certificate conditioned upon the applicant's written agreement to make specified changes in the project necessary to bring it into conformance with the intent of the designation.

In the event that the Historic Preservation Commission finds that the proposed alteration is not consistent with the historic character of the site, structure, or district, and no compromise can be reached immediately, they will refuse to issue a Certificate. Should this happen, a building or demolition permit would not be issued by the Development Center.

Obtaining a Certificate of Appropriateness (COA) is not difficult, but does require some time. Owners are advised to begin the process well in advance, since procedural regulations and the requirements of the ordinance do not permit hasty action on the part of the Commission. The following steps are required:

1. Historic Guidelines

Read the guidelines for the structure or district to determine if your project complies. Most guidelines are found on the Historic Preservation website, www.city.milwaukee.gov/hpc or call the office at 414-286-5712 or 286-5722 to obtain a copy.

2. Apply for a Building Permit

Apply at Development Center, on the 1st floor of 809 North Broadway, in the usual way. When the property is identified as a designated historic structure or a within a historic district, you will then be given an application for a Certificate of Appropriateness or directed to see the Historic Preservation Commission staff. Please note: If you wish to seek the advice of the Historic Preservation staff or apply for a Certificate of Appropriateness before you apply for a building permit, you may do so.

3. Complete the Application

Questions should be addressed to the Historic Preservation Commission staff located in City Hall Room B-4. Call 414-286-5712 or email HistoricPreservation@milwaukee.gov.

4. Prepare Presentation Materials

Certain drawings may be required for review by the Development Center before a building permit can be issued. A set of these same drawings should accompany your application for a Certificate of Appropriateness. You should, in addition, include sketches, drawings, photographs, or any other material that you feel will help the Historic Preservation Commission understand the proposed changes to the structure. The quality of the presentation materials will be an important factor in enabling the Commission to fully understand what you intend to do. The presentation materials will be filed and retained by the Commission, so be sure to make copies for your own records.

5. File the Application and Presentation Materials

Mail or hand-deliver the application with accompanying photographs, drawings and materials samples to the Historic Preservation Commission staff. In most cases HPC staff will be able to approve the work outlined in the application and issue a COA in approximately seven days. If the proposed work cannot be approved by staff, the application will be heard at the next scheduled Commission meeting provided that the application is received at least 12 working days prior to that meeting. Staff is available to meet with you to review your project at any time during the COA application process. Applicants are encouraged to attend the hearing / meeting in order to answer questions. If you have an architect or professional consultant, it may help if he or she is also available to answer questions. At the meeting, the Commission may approve the application, give approval conditioned on the owner's willingness to make specified changes, or refuse the request.

6. Public Hearings on Refused Applications

If your application is refused or you do not agree with the Commission recommendations, a public hearing will be scheduled on all refused applications within thirty days of the original review. At that time, the owner may present further cause as to why compliance with the ordinance may not be feasible or may present other relevant evidence. The Commission will issue a final decision on whether or not to grant a Certificate of Appropriateness not more than fifteen days after the public hearing. If the Commission refuses the application, construction or demolition cannot legally proceed. The applicant has the right to waive the public hearing if he or she wishes to file an appeal with the Common Council.

7. Appeal of Refused Applications

Owners denied a Certificate of Appropriateness by the Historic Preservation Commission may appeal the decision to the Common Council provided that such appeal is made within twenty days of the public hearing cited in step #5.

8. Begin Construction

Construction can proceed legally only after issuance of a Certificate of Appropriateness and obtaining a permit for the project. Work done without a Certificate of Appropriateness is a violation of Section 320-21, Milwaukee Code of Ordinances and is subject to correction orders or citations outlined in s. 12-14 of the Milwaukee Code. The progress of the construction will be monitored to assure compliance with approved plans.

9. Changes During Construction Require Approval

Changes made during the construction that affect the exterior of a building or site are not permitted unless they have been approved by the Historic Preservation Commission or Commission staff in accordance with the procedures outlined previously. The Development Center may suspend an issued permit to prevent unapproved changes from being carried forward.
