Estabrook Dam

Taxes in the county are already insane and spending money on wasteful projects like repairing a dam that harms the river doesn't make any sense. With the crime rate as high as it is in Milwaukee I don't know how anyone could support wasting money on repairing a dam that harms the river. The money saved on removing it could be spent on education and public safety.

I grew up in Milwaukee and loved to fish the river growing up. It is great to see how much the river has improved in recent years and is what made me move back into the city. Removing the dam would be a huge step in improving the fishing and the river. I believe it would also increase property values and draw more people back to the city.

Removing the Estabrook Dam will improve the health of the Milwaukee River, decrease flood risk for upstream homeowners, and is four times less expensive than repair. It's the best decision for all of Milwaukee County, including City of Milwaukee residents.

As an avid kayaker, I fully support the removal of the Estabrook Park Dam. Everything I've read with regard to dam removal (not just Estabrook Park, but across the country) points to healthier rivers, healthier fish and wildlife habitat and cleaner water. I believe this would be the case once the Estabrook Park dam is removed. Also, the cost of upkeep is completely ridiculous -- just remove the outdated relic, it serves NO GOOD PURPOSE.

I fish on the Milwaukee River near the site of the Estabrook Dam, and restoring the dam will make that difficult or impossible in places. So as a user of this site, I oppose restoring the dam. As a Milwaukee taxpayer, I also object to using my tax money for the added costs of restoration, as well as the on going costs of maintenance. There are better uses for my tax dollars.

Letting nature run its natural course can never be a bad thing. We have been making strides in the last few years regarding the quality of our rivers and lakes. I imagine folks being able to fish, swim and paddle our waterways without risk to their health. It is a shame what we have done. Let's start to make it right! For the good of the River -- please remove Estabrook Dam

Usually the objection to something that is bad for nature is that it costs taxpayers too much, or is bad for business. For once we have an opportunity to do something good for the environment, without those obstacles: take down Estabrook Dam! It would actually save money, do no harm to business, and improve the health of the river.

Sincerely,

Removing the dam will allow the trout and salmon populations to use this river to spawn. This is the major river they spawn in, in the lower part of our state. The river needs to become pristine again, for the habitat to support both the fish and better biodiversity. This will then encourage tourism and attract many people to the area.

The dam is also old and not amenable to repair. Removing the dam is the most cost effective option available. This will then attract groups of people that both wish to fish and enjoy nature.

Imagine how wonderful it would be to be able to show people salmon and trout spawning in a pristine river in the middle of a big city!

Please remove the dam.

The Estabrook dam is a dilapidated structure that needs to be torn down not only for fiscal reasons, but also because dams are unnatural and impede the natural flow of rivers. This intrusion into the way water naturally flows benefits no one, especially the species of fish who were here long before people came in and started building structures that they thought were in everyone's best interest.

According to an article in the Sentinel $8.1 million is needed to repair the structure in the next 20 years with $4.1 million needed for immediate repairs and upgrades. Personally, I would not like to see my tax dollars go to such a project.

Also, since the time the dam was built we have learned that building these structures and taking out obstacles like logs are detrimental to fish. Take out the dam and let mother nature take her course.

I believe that removing the Dam would enhance the community because it would give access for public use. I fished there for many years as a youngster and on into my adult years.
							Removing the Estabrook Dam will save Milwaukee County taxpayers money (at least $4 million over 20 years), improve the health of the Milwaukee River, decrease flood risk upstream, and reduce liability for the County and the risk to public safety.

10/27/2016 8:59	Karl	Held			Wisconsin	53029	We support the immediate removal of the Estabrook Dam. The dam has negatively effected my fishing experiences on the river. The debris buildup makes it very difficult to cast without getting snagged on hazards close to the surface of the water and there are also much lower fish populations. I've stopped using the part of the river that goes through Estabrook for recreation due to these issues.

							This river needs to support a healthy spawning population of the trout and salmonids. It needs to be in its natural state to do that. This would enhance commerce for the whole area if it became pristine again.

10/28/2016 15:52 John	Thielmann	1144A N 46th Street	Milwaukee	Wisconsin	53208	We support the immediate removal of the Estabrook Dam.	A wise professor once said to me, and the rest of his students, "The key to a good answer is asking the right question." The choice posited in recent headlines, and which has been presented for your consideration, is whether to remove or restore the Estabrook Dam. To choose wisely, I believe it is important to utilize the maxim of my old professor. I believe the 'good question' would be, "What is best for the river?" By 'best', I mean that which would result in the cleanest water, the greatest variety and abundance of flora and fauna, and be the closest restoration of the river to its natural state. I choose this as my benchmark because I have been convinced, through study and my profession as a teacher, that Mother Nature is an unequalled engineer. Consider that, as Nature has designed them over millennia, rivers efficiently dealt with flooding, filtration, and maintaining a balance between the various forms of flora and fauna. The greatest good is provided to the greatest number, humans included.
