

NOVEMBER 18-22, 2014 | AUSTIN CONVENTION CENTER

Make plans to attend the nation's largest educational event for city officials, hosted this year by the City of Austin, Texas. This year's theme, The Future of Cities, will showcase the innovative ways cities are driving change today, and will help you prepare for your community's future.

Who Should Attend?

Anyone interested in how cities are solving problems and becoming greater places to live will benefit from attending. The conference is especially useful to mayors, council members, newly elected officials, city managers, and municipal department heads. Although membership in the National League of Cities is not required to attend, representatives from member cities enjoy discounted registration.

What You'll Experience

At the Congress of Cities you'll enjoy innovative sessions, mobile workshops, inspiring keynote addresses, skill-building seminars, and great opportunities to meet colleagues from across the country.

News Spotlight

NLC has launched a video contest and your city could win 3 conference registrations. Submit a video between August 15 and September 15 to be eligible.

At this year's conference, the mobile workshop program has been designed to focus on sustainability in all of its forms – environmental, economic and social. The goal of Austin's Mayor and City Council is to be the most livable city in the country, a goal that is bound in every way to the concepts of sustainability and community resilience.

Social media users, this year's conference hashtag is #NLCATX.