I am a Milwaukee County resident and I respectfully oppose changing the current police pursuit policy in a way that further limits officers' ability to apprehend individuals who choose to flee from law enforcement.

Public safety should always be the highest priority, and any pursuit policy must carefully balance the risks to officers, innocent bystanders, and the community. At the same time, individuals who engage in dangerous or criminal behavior should be held accountable for the choices they make. When someone decides to flee from police, they are creating a serious public safety risk, and that responsibility should not be overlooked.

I encourage policymakers to preserve a balanced approach that supports both public safety and accountability, recognizing that law-abiding residents deserve protection and that those who knowingly engage in dangerous behavior should be held responsible under the law.

Good morning, Alderwoman Pratt. I have been informed that the Common Council will again be voting July 31st on 260225 which is a motion to modify Milwaukee Police standard operating procedures in pursuits. I was also told that many of the emails concerning standing AGAINST such changes have been removed from documentation. If this is true, is this some sort of attempt to make it look like the majority of citizens WANT changes made to the police department? They do not! The changes already made to the department back in February of this year has been shown to have had NO affect on vehicle pursuits at all, meaning that the changes didn't stop reckless driving or crashes that happened in such pursuits. I am still against any more changes to the Milwaukee Police Department procedures that would hinder them from doing their jobs. These law enforcement officers deal daily with crime and public safety realities. The reason for lawlessness and reckless driving in our city is not the lack of laws or the lack of law enforcement but the lack of holding criminals accountable for their crimes. Please don't allow hindrances to the police that would make their extremely hard jobs any harder.
