Challenges for Homeowners

Lateral lines are subjected to the same elements as public lines

- Ground shifting, fluctuating temperatures, tree root penetration, corrosion and more

Out of sight, out of mind

- Water and sewer lines located outside, usually underground

Failed / leaking lines waste thousands of gallons of water

- And present an environmental hazard

Common misconceptions

- The City is responsible for maintenance of the water and sewer lines on their property and under the street (for sewer)
- Repairs are covered by their homeowner's policy

“The ServLine Leak Protection Program has created a win-win situation for El Paso Water and our customers as they now receive financial protection and peace of mind. If they should experience a water leak, they are covered.

The utility is now recapturing lost water revenue, reducing bad debt and easing the staff workload.

Our customers agree with our decision to implement this program, as we have a 96% participation rate, along with increased customer satisfaction. I am so glad we partnered with HomeServe and ServLine.”

“The NLC Service Line Program has been a huge success for the City of Los Angeles and our homeowners. The program hasn’t had any hiccups, the company has done everything they said they would do (and more), and I have even enrolled as a customer for my own home.

My former District 15 boss, Councilmember Joe Buscaino, served as the NLC president for a one-year term and was always hearing incredible success stories while visiting with other council members around the country and attending various conferences.”
