Hi Sandy,

Just a bit more info for you regarding the window.
The window that Marvin makes with wood sashes is a much lower quality setup called a tilt pack system. This system mounts two vinyl guide tracks into your window jamb left and right. The depth of your jamb would not allow for a wood storm on the exterior. This system would require a storm window to perform well. The Marvin ultimate clad version does not require a storm window and it out performs the tilt pack system.

Thank You,

Jim Houghtaling C.R.
