| RDC uses several outreach methods including flyers, newsletters, collaborative participation with employers and other community based organizations. Our programs are promoted at various job fairs and community events. In addition to tools that we've used in the past we are still working to make our web-site user friendly and accessible to Milwaukee area job seekers. Our staff has built relationships with other service providers including the Milwaukee Job Center and the HIRE center. Working with these groups allows us to promote our programs over a greater geographical distance allowing us to attract and serve job seekers from throughout the city. RDC will also utilize its youth volunteers to perform literature drops to homes in the Harambee and Riverwest communities. The lit drops will ensure the currency of information about upcoming programs and job openings. RDC makes every effort to attend relevant community, corporate and educational functions that provide opportunities for program promotion. | |

Existing Agencies (Currently Funded by CDGA):

RDC has been successful in its outreach efforts that have resulted in an average of 350 visits per year of people seeking job training/placement. Each of the last two years we have expanded outreach to both employers and job seekers. In 2005 we added 11 new employers to our list of employers. In 2006 Tramont renewed its commitment to work with RDC to recruit and train if necessary welders with fabrication experience.

As it relates to jobseekers we have been very successful in providing direct placement services, we attribute this to success to our expanded hiring network. In 2005 we met or exceeded our placement goal of 20 by 16 placements. We met or exceeded our goal to train 85 people by 3, although we failed to meet our training/placement goal. The biggest obstacle RDC faced in placing trained candidates was the fact that when positions became available the client's phone was disconnected or he/she no longer lived at the same place. Several of the trained clients also lost positions or could not accept positions because of the inability to pass required drug tests.

In 2004 we also exceed our goals in the area of number of people trained and the number of people that received direct placement services. In this same year we began to struggle to stay connected clients who were drug-free. We are currently looking for strategies to thwart these negative trends that work against our training and placement goals.

As of July 2006 we had held our first training course and have scheduled two more. We have noticed that employers are seeking candidates with higher skill levels and we are working to ensure that our candidate's skills meet the stated requirements. We believe that through our continued efforts we will be able to fulfill our goals
