Thanks for the follow up here, Mario.

When I drive by the location, it looks like they only have overgrown shrubs planted. Doesn't the landscaping plan require a greater variety of plantings? Perhaps I am not reading that plan correctly.

Is there a way that DNS can schedule a reinspection for, say, June, to see whether they are following their landscape plan? Looking at it, I don't recall seeing anything out there other than shrubs, when the plan seems to require more than that.

Thanks for the follow up here, Mario.

When I drive by the location, it looks like they only have overgrown shrubs planted. Doesn't the landscaping plan require a greater variety of plantings? Perhaps I am not reading that plan correctly.

Please advise.

Very good. Thank you for this.

Is there a way that DNS can schedule a reinspection for, say, June, to see whether they are following their landscape plan? Looking at it, I don't recall seeing anything out there other than shrubs, when the plan seems to require more than that.

Thanks.
