Hi Chris,

Please add a presentation from LEAP to the April 5th agenda for the Community Intervention Task Force. Amos Irwin and Lionel King from LEAP are included on this message.

Information you could use to introduce LEAP:

The Law Enforcement Action Partnership is a nonprofit organization of police, sheriffs, judges, and prosecutors who speak from firsthand experience in support of transformative policing and criminal justice reforms. Several cities have contracted with LEAP to analyze police calls for service in order to design locally tailored programs to dispatch trained civilian "community responders" to many 911 calls currently handled by police. In case it's helpful, here are cities where we have conducted this work to date:

1. Amherst, MA - our Amherst community responder report is available here
2. Dayton, OH - the latest version of our report is available as a googledoc here
3. Atlanta, GA (analysis in progress now)
4. Brooklyn Center, MN (analysis in progress now)
5. Our report analyzing 10 cities' publicly available data is available here

Our related publications:

1. See this article in Police Chief Magazine
2. Detective Debbie Ramsey (Ret.) from Baltimore PD in the Washington Post
3. USA Today article on Community Responders

Thank you,

Arnitta
