

CleanSlate: Expanding Access in Wisconsin

About CleanSlate

We've been a leader in outpatient, medication-assisted treatment since our founding in 2009. We're on the front-lines of some of the nation's hardest hit areas because we know there is hope and we know we can help. We work with other healthcare providers, insurance plans, government agencies, and community groups to provide the coordinated care our patients deserve. Together, we will win the fight against the opioid epidemic.

The Opioid Epidemic in Wisconsin

The scope of the opioid epidemic is national, but the impact is local. We recognize that our friends, families and colleagues are at risk, so we've committed to expanding access to our effective treatment program right here in Wisconsin.

How We're Different

At CleanSlate, we recognize that a one-size-fits-all approach isn't effective, so we work with our patients to develop the flexible treatment plan that works specifically for them. We don't ask them to leave their home, family or job – instead, we come alongside our patients to give them the tools and treatment they need to recover and achieve the lives they want and deserve.

Our clinical model is grounded in proven best practices and driven by the latest science- and medicine-based treatment guidelines. We properly prescribe medication, primarily Buprenorphine and Vivitrol, which has been shown to “cut mortality rates in half.” Our award-winning treatment model helps patients thrive through a coordinated care approach that best supports all of our patients' needs.

The CleanSlate Way

- We treat addiction as a chronic (long-term) disease needing medical treatment
- All of our centers are led by certified physicians and a team of care providers
- Our Care Coordinators assist patients with external issues like housing, transportation, food and shelter
- We employ a full slate of rigorous procedures to prevent medication diversion
- We work exclusively with health insurance providers - we are not cash and carry

Our Mission

We are warriors for hope. We fight to save lives and help patients achieve the lives they want and deserve.

About CleanSlate

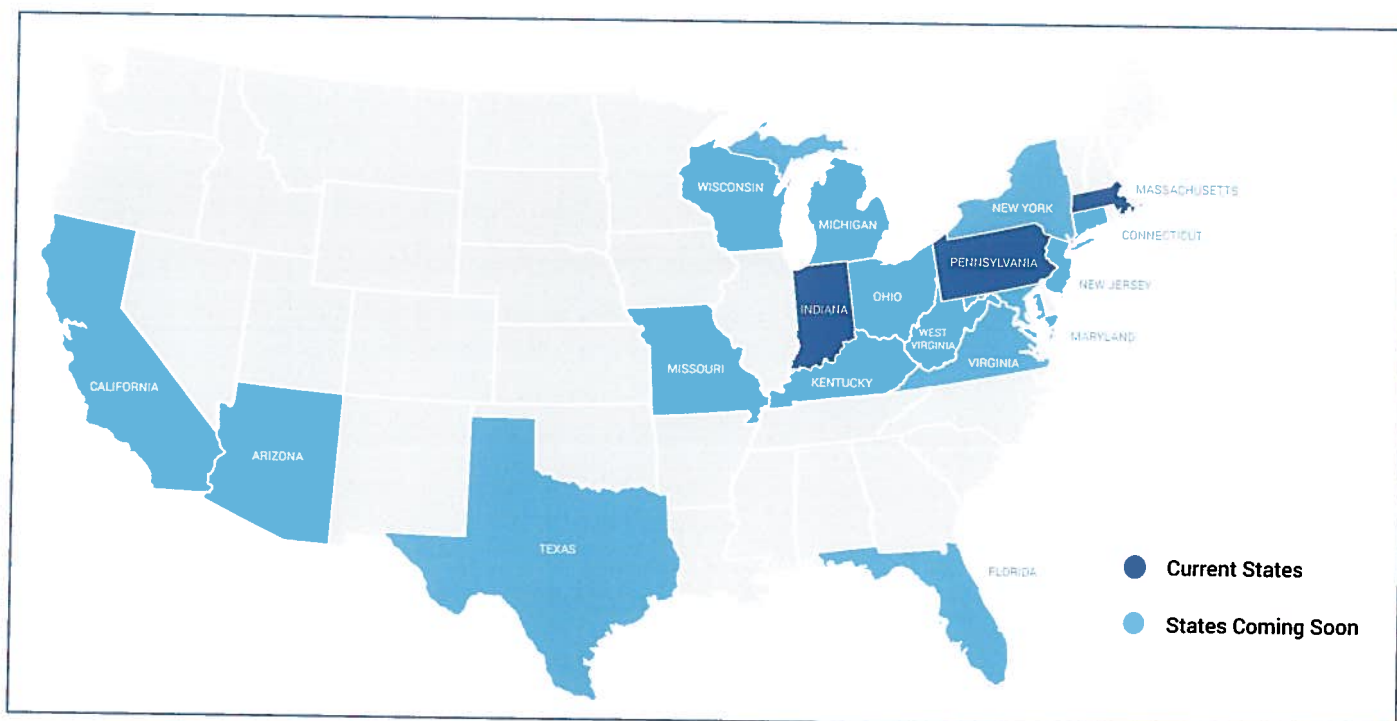

CleanSlate Centers was founded in 2009 in response to the growing opioid epidemic facing the country. A multi-state network of physician-led outpatient addiction treatment centers, CleanSlate is an industry leader in high-quality, evidence-based care by providing medication-assisted treatment and related therapies to those suffering from opioid and alcohol addiction.

The award-winning CleanSlate program of care includes individualized treatment plans for each patient consisting of appropriate medication treatment, clear accountability and evidence-based psychosocial care.

The CleanSlate Way of fighting the deadly disease of addiction is based in medicine and science and led by doctors. CleanSlate physicians properly prescribe medication – primarily buprenorphine – to patients and a full team of medical professionals ensures that medicine is properly managed. We coordinate care with additional local healthcare providers and partners to ensure patients get a full spectrum of care that includes clear accountability and psychosocial interventions.

Today, the CleanSlate medical network includes approximately 20 outpatient treatment centers committed to work hand-in-hand with patients to ensure they get the kind of care they need. Together with our partners, we are expanding access to care in communities across the nation, giving patients hope and the ability to achieve the lives they want and deserve.

CleanSlate is the leading medical group offering hope for patients, families and communities battling the disease of opioid addiction.

- As chronic brain diseases, opioid and alcohol addiction require treatment based in scientific evidence provided by medical experts.
- Treatment at CleanSlate Centers is individualized for each patient and led by doctors and supported by teams of licensed medical professionals.
- The outpatient treatment CleanSlate provides follows American Society of Addiction Medicine (ASAM) guidelines – a combination of medicine, accountability and psychosocial interventions.

CleanSlate is a trusted partner in the fight against the disease of opioid addiction.

- The only way to fight these chronic brain disease conditions is by working together.
- Patients and their families trust CleanSlate to provide treatment that works.
- CleanSlate forges partnerships and works closely with other healthcare providers, counseling centers, health insurance networks, government officials and local communities to collaborate as partners in this fight.

CleanSlate is leading a charge to provide broad access to proven medicine-based, outpatient care for those fighting the disease of addiction.

- The scope is national, the impact is local. Overdose deaths kill more people in the U.S. than car crashes. Families are threatened and can be destroyed without treatment.
- All demographic groups are suffering – young, old, poor, rich, white, black, people with advanced degrees, people who haven't graduated from high school. The disease does not discriminate.
- Increasing patient access to high-quality, outpatient treatment – based in medicine with accountability and evidence-based psychosocial care – is the front line of the battle against the opioid epidemic.
