Subject: Compromise

Good Day,

My husband and I live at 1522 N. Prospect, when we bought our condo we were told there would be a building next door where the Goll Mansion resides. That space is zoned for a 38 unit condo and I accepted that when we purchased our condo.

The new owner of the Goll mansion is trying to change the zoning to accommodate a 192 unit apartment building which uses up most of the lot size for the building.

I would hope we could come to a compromise. I realize 50/50 most likely would not work for him, but maybe he could make it 30% smaller.

Does it have to be all or nothing? Would it be possible to ask him to come closer to what the neighborhood would like to see there?

I would appreciate it if you would consider helping that happen.

Sincerely,
Patty Alajajian
