Aldermen Donovan and Bohl:

In follow-up to your request at the Public Safety Committee Meeting on January 7, attached please find two documents. The first one (Retail with 3 or more Part I incidents 2009), lists the total number of Part I offences at all business as defined under the ordinance. As you will see, there were 70 businesses that experienced multiple incidents of shoplifting, larceny and other offenses. This may not be what the City was hoping to mitigate under the ordinance. Unfortunately, shoplifting remains a Part I offence.

In the second document (Retail with 3 more more part 1 incidents-no thefts), we removed the "passive" type crimes and kept things like robberies, burglaries, assaults, etc. These may be the locations you may be more interested in having the ordinance affect. When you remove the burglaries (which occur when no one is on the premises), and count the "violent crimes against persons" incidents such as robberies and assaults, you end up with only five (5) businesses that experienced more than three of these types of incidents in 2009. In 2008, it was four.

Please let me know if you require additional information.

Again, MPD reiterates what it said in its original letter regarding the ordinance. We find that most businesses comply without having to resort to the issuing of a citation, but it is another tool in our "toolbox" to use if necessary.

Respectfully submitted,

Judy Pal
