This ordinance modifies the emerging business enterprise program of ch. 360 of the code to provide a definition of disadvantage due to discrimination; modifies the net income provisions for certification of emerging business enterprises; provides new percentage participation goals for emerging business enterprises in all city contracts; revises sanctions for the provision of false, misleading or fraudulent information; and establishes procedures for administrative review and appeals.

“Disadvantage resulting from past discrimination” is defined to mean an applicant’s experience of substantial difficulty in attaining employment, business training or business success at least in part due to discrimination on the basis of sex, race, religion, color, national origin or ancestry, age, disability, lawful source of income, marital status, sexual orientation or familial status as these terms are commonly understood or otherwise defined in s.109-3, and where such discrimination is supported by clear and convincing evidence.

A small business concern is redefined so that firms with more than $2.5 million in annual gross receipts are not included. Exceptions to this amount, within the limits of federal standards, may still be made for cause.

The ordinance clarifies the responsibilities of the manager of the emerging business enterprise administration for reporting to the common council. Reports are to be made by the manager to the appropriate committee of the common council not less than quarterly. The manager’s responsibilities for administrative review of decisions made in the administration of the program are also clarified.

The categories of contracting are modified and separate percentage EBE goals are established for each contract and for each contracting department’s annual expenditures for all contracts. The following percentage goals are changed from 18% to: 25% for construction; 10% for goods and services; 10% for professional services; and 15% for supplies.

Certification requirements and procedures are clarified. A list of certified emerging business enterprises is to be maintained. Certified enterprises are accorded procedural rights including administrative review of adverse decisions made by contracting departments and, in certain circumstances, adverse decisions affecting subcontractors. A process is established for appeals to the common council that includes the right to be heard by the appropriate standing committee of the common council.

Whereas, The emerging business enterprise program was created by the city of Milwaukee in 1987 and known as the “Equal Opportunities Enterprise Program”; and

Whereas, The emerging business enterprise program is the successor to programs promoting the participation of minority business enterprises and women-owned businesses in city contracting and procurement; and

Whereas, The goals of 25% minority enterprise and 3% women-owned business participation were initially retained in the emerging business enterprise program; and

Whereas, In 1989 the program was renamed “The Minority Enterprise and Disadvantaged Business Program,” and the goals for all categories of expenditures in the program were set at 18%; and

Whereas, A study entitled “Review of The City of Milwaukee’s Equal Opportunities Disadvantaged Business Enterprise Program 1989-1992” found that the city had met, exceeded, or made continuing progress toward meeting higher goals in the years preceding the program change in 1989; and

Whereas, The city has failed to meet its emerging business enterprise goals for departments other than public works in each of the years 2000 through 2004, the last 5 reported years, and has not maintained significant progress toward the overall 18% goal; and

Whereas, During this same time period, Milwaukee County’s goals of 25% participation for disadvantaged business enterprises in contracts for construction services and for construction related professional services have been exceeded; and

Whereas, The 2003 study by the University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee, entitled, “Stealth Depression: Joblessness in the City of Milwaukee Since 1990,” found that more than 56% of the working male population in the city’s “Enterprise Community” census tracts was unemployed or no longer in the labor force; and

Whereas, Audits of the emerging business enterprise program conducted by the Office of the Comptroller in 1995 and in 2005 encouraged more comprehensive reporting by program administration to the common council; and

Whereas, Reports of the emerging business enterprise program do not appear in the files of the common council for the years 1996 through 2003; and

Whereas, The common council finds that additional oversight of the implementation and progress of the emerging business enterprise program is critical to the success of the program; and

Whereas, The economic prosperity and growth of the Milwaukee region depend upon a vibrant and prosperous inner-city economy; and

Whereas, Many new programs have been established in the past decade promoting entrepreneurship within the city, especially among historically disadvantaged populations and in historically disadvantaged neighborhoods; and

Whereas, The contracting and procurement policies and practices of the city contribute to the success, or failure, of emerging and disadvantaged business enterprises; and

Whereas, The success of emerging and disadvantaged business enterprises in the city will contribute to a reduction in unemployment and an increase in job creation and job opportunities; now, therefore

The Mayor and Common Council of the City of Milwaukee do ordain:

Part 1. Section 360-01-1 to 17 of the code is renumbered 360-01-2 to 18.
